DEPARMENT OF ZOOLOGY CONDUCTED WORKSHOP ON COMPOSTING TECHNOLOGY

On 27th JUNE 2023 the department of zoology in Association with Sri.Venkata Subbarao Maddukuri, Consultant advisor, Solid waste management and founder advisor, Vijayawada Municipal Corporation conducted "workshop on composting technology to VTPS employees, Ibrahimpatnam, A.P.

Compost is an organic fertilizer that can be made on the farm at very low cost. The most important input is the farmer's labour. Compost is decomposed organic matter, such as crop residues and/or animal manure. Most of these ingredients can be easily found around the farm. Agromisa's Question and Answer Service frequently receives questions from farmers who face a problem with a decreasing fertility of their soils. Due to soil fertility problems, crop returns often decrease and the crops are more susceptible to pests and diseases because they are in bad condition. In order to increase soil fertility in the short run, nutrients have to be added to the soil. This is often done by applying chemical fertilizers. Chemical fertilizers, however, are expensive to purchase and for most small-scale farmers, this is a problem. Preparation and use of compost can be a solution to that problem. To really improve soil fertility in the long term, it is necessary to improve the soil structure and to increase the organic matter content of the soil. Compost is a good fertilizer because it contains nutrients as well as organic matter. The role of organic matter is explained in more details below. Using compost as the only means to maintain soil fertility is possible, but in that case you need a very large quantity of compost. We advise you to apply several practices at the same time in order to maintain the soil fertility in the long term. Some of these methods to improve soil fertility are crop husbandry methods (mulching, green manure, agroforestry and improved fallow) and applying organic manures (compost, liquid manure and animal manure). If animal manure is applied it should have matured for some time, otherwise it might damage the plants. Composting animal manure makes it a better fertilizer.

The College is dedicated to effective solid waste management, implementing comprehensive strategies to handle both biodegradable and non-biodegradable wastes. Our robust waste management system incorporates various composting techniques, including vermicomposting, NADEP composting, INDORE composting, pipe composting etc., reflecting our commitment to sustainability and environmental stewardship.

Key Components of Our Solid Waste Management System:

- Vermicomposting: Earthworms are used to decompose organic waste, transforming it into nutrient-rich manure. This process not only reduces waste but also produces high-quality compost that can be used on campus as garden and landscape manure. One advantage of vermicomposting is no need to aerate or turn a vermicompost pile. The worms do the turning for aeration. In vermicomposting, most of the excess energy is tied up in worm biomass.

- NADEP Composting: The NADEP method of organic composting is also done with a wide range of organic materials such as foliage litter and kitchen waste with an end-product of a fertilizer that serves as a good alternative to manure.
- Indore method of Composting: The Indore method of composting is a traditional technique that involves layering organic materials in pits or heaps and turning them regularly to aerate the pile. College employed this composting technique to process canteen kitchen waste, garden refuse, and other biodegradable materials. This method facilitates the natural decomposition of organic matter, resulting in compost that enriches soil health and supports plant growth.
- Pipe Composting: College has innovative pipe composting system, designed to efficiently manage organic waste in a compact form. This method is particularly effective in urban settings, where space is limited, allowing for effective waste decomposition without requiring extensive land use.

Separation of Waste: We emphasize the importance of waste segregation at the source. Clearly marked bins for biodegradable and non-biodegradable waste encourage students and staff to participate actively in waste management practices. Nearly 30 fixed SS dustbins are placed across the campus. 15 Neelkamal roller dustbins are used to collect the segregated waste. Sufficient plastic dustbins are placed in the corridors.

Monitoring and Evaluation: Our solid waste management practices are regularly monitored and evaluated to identify areas for improvement and ensure compliance with environmental standards.

In conclusion, the solid waste management initiatives at Parvathaneni Brahmayya Siddhartha College of Arts & Science demonstrate our commitment to sustainability and responsible waste handling. By implementing a diverse range of composting techniques and promoting awareness, we strive to minimize our environmental impact and cultivate an eco-friendly campus culture.

The wastes are properly stacked in designated place and later disposed through vendors for proper waste management. The college promotes digital platform to reduce the usage of paper for communication and sharing documents.

In conclusion, proper waste management is a critical element for sustainable growth and development for any society. It goes beyond the aesthetic appeal of a clean environment as it directly impacts human health, air and water quality, and contributes to global efforts to combat. As citizens, we have to put in some effort and do our bit to save the environment. It is important to cut down the waste that contributes to the landfills. If we all practise recycling and upcycling in our day-to-day life, hopefully we can reduce the need for new landfills E-waste recycling is an important process that helps to protect the environment and conserve natural resources. By properly disposing of e-waste, we can reduce the number of harmful chemicals released into the environment and prevent soil and water contamination.

Three Day Hands on Work Shop on "Data Mining Using Tableau"

02nd to 04th December 2019, 2019-2020

The Department of Computer Science conducted a three day hands on workshop on "Data Mining Using Tableau" from 02nd to 04th December 2019, for Computer Science students. Mr.Deepak Gupta, CEO, TUP Make Prosol Pvt. Ltd., Singapore acted as the resource person for the workshop. 86 students had attended the workshop. Tableau is a powerful and fastest growing data visualization tool used in the Business Intelligence Industry. It helps in simplifying raw data into an easy understandable format. Data analysis is very fast with Tableau and the visualizations created are in the form of dashboards and worksheets. Tableau can help anyone see and understand their data. Connect to almost any database, drag and drop to create visualizations and share with a click.

In this workshop the students were trained to visualize the gathered data in the form of graphs and charts using Anaconda Navigators and Tableau. This can be analyzed, understood and help organizations solve their data problems.For instance the images captured on the roads are taken and analyze the density of the traffic in different areas at different timings. In the Hospitals patients data is gathered, find out the diseases the maximum number of patients are suffering from, the maximum utilized drugs in medication are identified, which is useful to doctors and druggists. Different areas climate can be predicted by viewing previous data which helps the tourists.

Event Coordinators
1.Dr.T.S.Ravi Kiran	2.Mr.V.V.Ramana

Outcome of guest lecture:

- Around 100 students were trained to visualize the gathered data in the form of graphs and charts using Anaconda Navigators and Tableau.
